3. Village of Gencsapáti

Gencsapáti is a historic village located in western Hungary, near the Austrian border, just a few kilometers from the city of Szombathely. The area has been inhabited since ancient times, with archaeological findings dating back to the Roman era, as Szombathely (ancient Savaria) was an important Roman settlement. Gencsapáti itself has a long history, first mentioned in written records in the 13th century.

Over the centuries, the village has maintained its cultural traditions and strong community spirit. Today, Gencsapáti is not only known for its peaceful countryside and historical roots but also for its dedication to sport—especially BMX. The Gencsapáti KSE BMX team, a proud member of the Alpe-Adria BMX Series for five years, has helped put this small village on the map in the European BMX community.

We are honored to welcome riders and fans from across the region to experience the unique blend of history, hospitality, and high-level BMX racing that Gencsapáti has to offer.
